

Parkers get involved in the construction of the new home of Brighton FC

PBS DELIVER THE GOODS TO THE FALMER STADIUM

Parker Building Supplies are proud to have been chosen as one of the elite selection of suppliers of building materials to the new Brighton and Hove Albion football stadium which is presently rising like a Phoenix on a site adjacent to the University of Brighton campus.

For the number of long suffering fans of our most local professional football club in our ranks here at Parker Building Supplies, the past few years have been more testing than ever. But it is not actually the all too frequent dire performances on the pitch so much as the on/off saga of the new stadium which has caused the frowning of brows.

After a long period during which planning applications were consistently delayed by certain local politicians wanting to make a name for themselves, the university finally received approval for a substantial rebuilding of the campus. In turn the 22,000 seater stadium development was approved, replacing several outdated university buildings.

Above: Parkers materials arriving on the site of the new Falmer stadium, also pictured as it is now and as it will look on completion

Construction at the site officially started on 17 December 2008 at a projected cost of £44 million and work is progressing well.

The manager, players and coaching staff are now back to the grindstone after enjoying their summer break, but for those working on the stadium project there was no close season. Thankfully, the construction team are currently putting on a much more impressive display than their footballing counterparts !

PARKER BUILDING SUPPLIES